Salt Lake and Utah. Harriman's Great Work. Utah. Do You Know It? Nothing But Wonders.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 16.—This is written on the Union Pacific, between California and Salt Lake. The late E. H. Harriman bought, ruled and improved his railroad system and the Southern Pacific accomplished wonders, in a few years. Untimely death took one of the most useful men that this country has known. He rebuilt his own roads, making prosperous and efficient what was imperfect and unprofitable. He also showed other railroad men how to build, extend and open up new territory. Some day more monuments will be built to men like E. H. Harriman, and fewer to men that have done other men.

OVER mountains, prairies, deserts and plains, the Mormons came slowly here to the Great Salt Lake, eighty-two years ago. They sought a place where they might live as they chose, and practice a religion, especially revealed to them, as all religions have been especially revealed to others. They also wanted to have many wives, as King Solomon, David and other good Biblical characters had the same idea.

THEY have abandoned polygamy now, realizing what anybody might have told them, that one wife is enough, but clinging to their Mormon religion.

BRIGHAM YOUNG, when he laid out Salt Lake City in 1850, made its streets 132 feet wide from curb to curb. There was a wide man. There is no traffic problem in Salt Lake City, although it will come. When you come west, to Salt Lake, ask for D. S. Spencer, general passenger agent of the Union Pacific. He will tell you all about everything.

MUCH wealth, unlimited opportunity, in Utah's eighty-four thousand nine hundred and ninety square miles. In all the world only three places of mountains run east and west. Utah has one of them. All other mountain ranges run north and south. Why?

Have the magnetic currents, going north and south, anything to do with it? The first two white men that ever saw Utah were Spanish priests, Fathers Escalante and Dominguez, in 1775, year of the first Fourth of July.

UTAH has 1,251 factories now and produces yearly enough export goods to fill a row of cans reaching from San Diego to Paris, France.

F. G. BONFILS, who owns the Denver Post and gives competitors a headache, writes: "When you get into Colorado Thursday morning you will see more agricultural wealth and growing crops than you have seen from Los Angeles to the Colorado line, an amazing statement, but true." You will hear about Bonfils, Colorado, and the city of Denver tomorrow.

RETURNING to Utah, one county, Box Elder, population 20,819, spends each year $3,356,992.63. The county's assessments $33, 161,194, averages $7,523.76 per family.

And consider Utah's mineral wealth. Ninety-three different minerals, 210 varieties, the largest open cut copper mine in the world. Utah Copper company has paid $161, 291,295 in dividends.

UTAH stands first among the states in silver production, second in lead, second in copper, fourth in zinc, sixth in gold. Utah has enough salt to supply the entire world for more than 500 years. Enough rock of the right kind to pave every highway, street and alley in the United States, enough marble to build a column nearly two feet thick from the earth to the moon, and coal to supply the country for 100 years to come, also which should please good prohibitionists, enough onyx to build a soda foundation long enough to accommodate 850,000,000 people at one time, two feet for each customer.

BEST of all, Utah has a public school system as fine as any in the union.

There are in Utah now 20 times as many high schools as there were in 1905. Fewer than three out of every 1,000 people in Utah are illiterate. Also and finally, Utah has the largest known dinosaur deposit in the world, Brigham Young's magnificent temple possesses an organ so big, deep and swart, that its music would make you melancholy on your happiest day.

You should see Utah, Salt Lake City. Salt Lake is really salt. From four pails filled with water you get one pail full of salt.

Attention Turners & Handlers. Local Union No. 19. Special meeting Monday, August 19th. Business of vital importance. MEET AT 8 P.M.—A.S.

WORLD TOURISTS ON ZEP WILL NOT BE HUNGRY

Leave it to the thoroughness of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, to do everything possible for the comfort of his travelers of the world tour. As shown on the map, right, the Graf may hit part of the Arctic Circle in her flight over Siberia to Japan, but "forewarned is forearmed," and the passengers will have plenty of heavy clothes. Chef Manz, left center, is in reality one of the chief reasons for satisfaction. He looks after the "inner man." At the left is shown his spit and spit kitchenette, which would delight the heart of any housewife. Everything is cooked by electricity because no flame is allowed on the Graf, due to the danger of her exploding hydrogen gas which she uses for lifting power.

100 MT. HOPE SCHOOL ALUMNI AT REUNION

Former Academy Pupils Greet Institution's Mentors.

ADDRESSES MADE Prof. Taylor Reads Program; Mrs. Taylor Speaks.

More than 100 former students of Mt. Hope academy, Rogers, many of them grandfathers and grandmothers, attended the annual reunion yesterday at the Clarkson home of the institution's mentors, Prof. and Mrs. Amos Y. Taylor, both now past 80.

Having recovered from long illnesses, the two teachers exhibited mental acumen in their greetings and addresses and were in return given marked tokens of respect and affection by those whom they had so signally touched in their formative years.

In front of an arbor just off the porch of the home, the assemblage heard Mr. Taylor read a new poem "A Greeting to the Mt. Hope Academy Reunion of 1929," and listened with rapt attention to reminiscences by Mrs. Taylor and subsequent addresses by men and women from many sections of the county and northeastern Ohio.

Appellate Judge L. T. Farr, of Lisbon, in the absence of Harry W. Taylor, of Youngstown, president of the Mt. Hope Academy association, presided.

Physicians, lawyers, judges, county and city officials, farmers and business men from many communities were in attendance. Some of the visitors came from as far as Washington, D. C. Practically every vocation of life was represented.

"To See Ourselves As Others See Us"

Of course, that is really the primary reason for mirrors—every woman will admit as she adjusts the tilt of her head in a plate glass shop window, or repair the ravages made by a chocolate soda to the tint of her lips, by the tiny mirror she carries in her purse. But aside from the purely useful role, a mirror can be also highly decorative.

It gives a fictitious sense of space to a small room, and brings brightness and gaiety to a dull dark one. In the entrance hall, the newcomer has a last opportunity for a hasty survey before presenting herself to the assembled guests. The living room may offer several advantageous places for reflecting surfaces. The dining room is an excellent place to use large panels of glass—especially above the sideboard of buffet.

In our Art Department you will find Mirrors of most every shape and description—Venetian—semi venetian, modernistic. Large panels—full length and console mirrors. Prices ranging from $1.00 to $35.00.

Crowd averaging 3,000 persons or more have witnessed the St. Rocco fireworks displays here in past years.

TWO VILLAGES SEEK PAVING

Stratton and Empire may take advantage of the opportunity of contracting for a finished paving along the Ohio River road.

Members of the council of the two villages have learned it is possible to contract with the successful bidder on the state highway to add extra width to the street in front of the built-up sections of the two villages.

Interest in the plan is developing because at no time in the future will it be possible to get the work done for anything like the same price to both the village and the property owners.

CONLIN TAKES NOMINATION

Doyle Declines and Salineville Deadlock Is Broken.

SALINEVILLE, O., Aug. 16.—Francis Doyle, 22, a potter, who tied with Frank Conlin, a Pennsylvania railroad employee, for the Democratic mayoralty nomination in Tuesday's primary, each getting three votes, today announced he will not be a candidate.

As Doyle made known his intentions, Conlin announced that he would make the race at the November election against H. R. Cameron, named on the Republican slate.

The names of the two men were not listed on the ballot Tuesday, friends having written them in at the head of the Democratic ticket.

Decisions of the two came as the election board was preparing to call the two candidates to decide the manner of breaking the deadlock. Had Doyle decided to run, it is likely a coin would have been flipped for the nomination.

Doyle and his family are preparing to move to New Castle, Pa., where the former has obtained employment.

Ohio Justice

Ohio ranks with New Jersey for promptness in disposing of the trial of Dr. James H. Snook, veterinary expert, former world's champion pistol shot, sportsman and author, who will pay for his life in the electric chair for the murder of Theora Hix, coed.

Exactly 28 minutes after the judge in the Columbus trial had delivered his charge, a jury of eleven men and one woman returned a verdict of guilty of first degree murder without adding the recommendation of mercy.

Thus two months to the day after the body of the girl was found on a rifle range in the state capital, the man old enough to be her father heard his fate sealed. And although defense attorneys, on Monday, will argue a motion for a new trial, it is expected that it will be overruled and that Snook will be sent to his doom within the next 100 days.

The verdict, returned with a speed that is unusual in murder trials, ends a case that shocked the people of Ohio. Twelve citizens of a community in which the killer lived heeded Prosecutor Chester's advice to "bring back a verdict that the people of the whole state of Ohio will be proud of."

And, incidentally, it is crimes like that for which Snook has been convicted which prove a good argument for capital punishment.

Industrial Casualty List

The peace-time casualty list from industries of Ohio is staggering and the toll of war dwarfed in comparison. In 1928 there were 229,233 accidents in industry, with a corresponding large number of fatalities. The tremendous economic loss to workers and employers, aside from the physical suffering and mental anguish involved, should be sufficient to arouse everyone to a realization of the enormity of the need for greater stimulus in accident prevention.

Safety consciousness is growing rapidly in Ohio, but the persistency of a high frequency and severity rate for the state as a whole warrants the deep concern of everyone and suggests more intensive organization on the part of employers and the exercise of greater care on the part of the workers.

In an industrial community like East Liverpool the figures from the industrial commission's office showing the casualty list for the state last year are of more than passing interest. They are worth real study and concentration, because they touch the lives of every man, woman and child here.

Metal goods manufacture heads the casualty list with 61,632 accidents and 114 fatalities; commercial pursuits had 23,201 casualties and 84 fatalities; building erection and demolition, 12,068 with 120 fatalities; blast furnaces and steel works, 13,370 with 93 fatalities, and so on down the line. The figures are enormous—the list of dead awe-inspiring.

Thomas P. Kearns, of the state division of safety and hygiene, sums up the whole thing in this fashion:

"When it is considered that, in a single year, the time lost by industrial accidents in this state would consume the man-power of one hundred individuals working steadily for almost three centuries, the tremendous economic loss to workers and employers is instantly apparent."

Safeguards for workmen in industry are now a part of plant equipment everywhere, but there always are workmen who become careless through constant association with these safeguards.

Workmen who grow careless a single instant not only jeopardize their own lives, but the lives of other workmen, the economic working of the plant, and frequently great sorrow for women and children outside the industry itself. There cannot be too much care exercised in everything workmen do, and if there is this great care exercised by everyone, then the safeguards thrown about the employee by the employer will bring better results and reduce this staggering yearly accident and death rate among workmen.

President's Birthday

President Hoover has just passed his 55th birthday anniversary. Characteristic of the man, he made no reference to the event, important as it is. But in West Branch, Ia., where Herbert Hoover was born, his fellow townsmen gathered around a boulder dedicated to him and made considerable fuss over the occasion.

Mr. Hoover was at Rapidan, his summer camp in Virginia, trying to escape from the heat of Washington, and doing a very good job of it, too. He spent the day fishing, in going over some official papers and in otherwise taking life casually and restfully.

Time was, and not so long ago, when a man 55 years of age was considered old, not only in experience, but in physical appearance and makeup. Today a man 55 years old is in the very prime of his life, just getting a real grip on things and good for many more years of useful endeavor.

Particularly is this so with Mr. Hoover. The president looks younger today than when he was inducted into office last March 4. He thrives on hard work, and perhaps that is the reason he doesn't consider a 55th birthday anniversary worth more than passing notice.

The nation will congratulate President Hoover on the attainment of another milestone in his life—and wish him many more of them.

HASKIN LETTER DAILY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 16.—The finances of no government are as great as those of its citizens in their private capacity and thus it is that while the bonds issued or guaranteed by the old Russian Imperial government and which have been repudiated by the Soviets, run into billions, a larger sum is represented by private industrial securities. The subject of Russian indebtedness has come up anew because of the statement of Jan Rudzicki, close associate of Stalin, that Russia, under certain circumstances would treat with the United States concerning an adjustment of the Russian debt, under the Kerensky regime, to the United States. Such a modification of the Russian attitude is looked upon in some quarters as a possible harbinger of a more general recognition of foreign obligations.

Foreign capital invested in private enterprises in Russia at the time of the revolution is estimated at between $1,000,000,000 and $1,125,000,000. Half of this huge sum is British and French capital. Although both nations have fought Russia, the land of the Czar has long been an object of their commercial interest. Money is fluid and flows across international boundaries readily, no matter what wars may occur. Money will always go where there is more money to be made.

These foreign investments, representing money of persons from all parts of the world, were in all manner of enterprises—factories, oil wells, public utilities, mining and timber developments, and farming. When Soviet authorities seized and nationalized all property, repudiating debts to everyone on the ground that there was no such thing as the right of an individual or a company to own anything, they took the property in which foreigners had capital invested as well as that of their own people. In such a process certain intangible values ceased to exist, franchises, good will, and the like. But the tangible, tangible property belonging to foreigners actually seized reached the vast sum of $1,003,500,000.

American investments in Russian war companies were new at the outbreak of the World War. We traded largely with that country but American companies had a relatively small amount of money actually invested. That amount is placed at $58,875,000 or only a little more than 5 per cent of the total foreign investments.

But the loss through nationalization of factories, street car lines, and such property owned by Americans and amounting to the above named sum was but a fraction of the other losses to Americans, widely scattered and of a varying nature. The $58,875,000 figure represents the investments of such big companies as International Harvester, Ohio Elevator, Singer Sewing Machine, various oil companies, and trading companies doing a substantial business. In addition there were many Americans who owned dwelling houses, stores, and personal property, all of which were seized by the revolutionaries. The aggregate of these losses is far greater than that of the big companies, amounting to approximately $300,000,000.

That the Soviet government has counterclaims to make against allied governments is also a matter clear in international law. Several allied governments joined, following the revolution which set up the Soviet regime, in attempting to put down the Red army and restore the old order. This is clear intervention. Not only has a nation a right to make a general damage claim under such circumstances but specific claims of its nationals. The troops sent into Russia by the United States, Great Britain, and other countries unquestionably did much damage. The society for assistance to victims of intervention was organized in Russia in 1923 and set about gathering in all claims for property damages due to the intervention. All the various Russian claims have reached an estimated total of $60,000,000,000. In 1924 during the negotiations which followed British recognition of the Russian Soviet government, Prime Minister MacDonald was presented with a bill for $20,000,000,000 for damages on account of British support of Kolchak, Denikin, and Yudenitch. The claim was practically ignored nor has any other government paid any attention to the Russian demands.

Some day when an accounting is reached the United States will have to permit Russian counterclaims to be set up against own claims against Russia.

Turning Back Pages of Memory

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 16.—The finances of no government are as great as those of its citizens in their private capacity and thus it is that while the bonds issued or guaranteed by the old Russian Imperial government and which have been repudiated by the Soviets, run into billions, a larger sum is represented by private industrial securities. The subject of Russian indebtedness has come up anew because of the statement of Jan Rudzicki, close associate of Stalin, that Russia, under certain circumstances would treat with the United States concerning an adjustment of the Russian debt, under the Kerensky regime, to the United States. Such a modification of the Russian attitude is looked upon in some quarters as a possible harbinger of a more general recognition of foreign obligations.

Foreign capital invested in private enterprises in Russia at the time of the revolution is estimated at between $1,000,000,000 and $1,125,000,000. Half of this huge sum is British and French capital. Although both nations have fought Russia, the land of the Czar has long been an object of their commercial interest. Money is fluid and flows across international boundaries readily, no matter what wars may occur. Money will always go where there is more money to be made.

These foreign investments, representing money of persons from all parts of the world, were in all manner of enterprises—factories, oil wells, public utilities, mining and timber developments, and farming. When Soviet authorities seized and nationalized all property, repudiating debts to everyone on the ground that there was no such thing as the right of an individual or a company to own anything, they took the property in which foreigners had capital invested as well as that of their own people. In such a process certain intangible values ceased to exist, franchises, good will, and the like. But the tangible, tangible property belonging to foreigners actually seized reached the vast sum of $1,003,500,000.

American investments in Russian war companies were new at the outbreak of the World War. We traded largely with that country but American companies had a relatively small amount of money actually invested. That amount is placed at $58,875,000 or only a little more than 5 per cent of the total foreign investments.

But the loss through nationalization of factories, street car lines, and such property owned by Americans and amounting to the above named sum was but a fraction of the other losses to Americans, widely scattered and of a varying nature. The $58,875,000 figure represents the investments of such big companies as International Harvester, Ohio Elevator, Singer Sewing Machine, various oil companies, and trading companies doing a substantial business. In addition there were many Americans who owned dwelling houses, stores, and personal property, all of which were seized by the revolutionaries. The aggregate of these losses is far greater than that of the big companies, amounting to approximately $300,000,000.

That the Soviet government has counterclaims to make against allied governments is also a matter clear in international law. Several allied governments joined, following the revolution which set up the Soviet regime, in attempting to put down the Red army and restore the old order. This is clear intervention. Not only has a nation a right to make a general damage claim under such circumstances but specific claims of its nationals. The troops sent into Russia by the United States, Great Britain, and other countries unquestionably did much damage. The society for assistance to victims of intervention was organized in Russia in 1923 and set about gathering in all claims for property damages due to the intervention. All the various Russian claims have reached an estimated total of $60,000,000,000. In 1924 during the negotiations which followed British recognition of the Russian Soviet government, Prime Minister MacDonald was presented with a bill for $20,000,000,000 for damages on account of British support of Kolchak, Denikin, and Yudenitch. The claim was practically ignored nor has any other government paid any attention to the Russian demands.

Some day when an accounting is reached the United States will have to permit Russian counterclaims to be set up against own claims against Russia.

And, incidentally, it is crimes like that for which Snook has been convicted which prove a good argument for capital punishment.

The peace-time casualty list from industries of Ohio is staggering and the toll of war dwarfed in comparison. In 1928 there were 229,233 accidents in industry, with a corresponding large number of fatalities. The tremendous economic loss to workers and employers, aside from the physical suffering and mental anguish involved, should be sufficient to arouse everyone to a realization of the enormity of the need for greater stimulus in accident prevention.

Safety consciousness is growing rapidly in Ohio, but the persistency of a high frequency and severity rate for the state as a whole warrants the deep concern of everyone and suggests more intensive organization on the part of employers and the exercise of greater care on the part of the workers.

In an industrial community like East Liverpool the figures from the industrial commission's office showing the casualty list for the state last year are of more than passing interest. They are worth real study and concentration, because they touch the lives of every man, woman and child here.

Metal goods manufacture heads the casualty list with 61,632 accidents and 114 fatalities; commercial pursuits had 23,201 casualties and 84 fatalities; building erection and demolition, 12,068 with 120 fatalities; blast furnaces and steel works, 13,370 with 93 fatalities, and so on down the line. The figures are enormous—the list of dead awe-inspiring.

Thomas P. Kearns, of the state division of safety and hygiene, sums up the whole thing in this fashion:

"When it is considered that, in a single year, the time lost by industrial accidents in this state would consume the man-power of one hundred individuals working steadily for almost three centuries, the tremendous economic loss to workers and employers is instantly apparent."

Safeguards for workmen in industry are now a part of plant equipment everywhere, but there always are workmen who become careless through constant association with these safeguards.

Workmen who grow careless a single instant not only jeopardize their own lives, but the lives of other workmen, the economic working of the plant, and frequently great sorrow for women and children outside the industry itself. There cannot be too much care exercised in everything workmen do, and if there is this great care exercised by everyone, then the safeguards thrown about the employee by the employer will bring better results and reduce this staggering yearly accident and death rate among workmen.

Time was, and not so long ago, when a man 55 years of age was considered old, not only in experience, but in physical appearance and makeup. Today a man 55 years old is in the very prime of his life, just getting a real grip on things and good for many more years of useful endeavor.

Particularly is this so with Mr. Hoover. The president looks younger today than when he was inducted into office last March 4. He thrives on hard work, and perhaps that is the reason he doesn't consider a 55th birthday anniversary worth more than passing notice.

The nation will congratulate President Hoover on the attainment of another milestone in his life—and wish him many more of them.

Mr. Hoover was at Rapidan, his summer camp in Virginia, trying to escape from the heat of Washington, and doing a very good job of it, too. He spent the day fishing, in going over some official papers and in otherwise taking life casually and restfully.

BILLIE DOVE WINS AT STATE

Add the name of Billy Dove to the movie stars who have removed all doubt as to their ability to hold their popularity now that the talking pictures have found a definite place in the hearts of movie fans.

That Vitaphone establishes her as a still greater star was definitely proved last night at the State theater where her vocal ability was displayed in "The Man and the Moment," her latest picture. The exceptionally pleasing quality of her voice, together with her ability to get her lines across with the finesse of an experienced stage artist, enhances the thrill that Billy always gave with her performances on the silent screen.

A story by Elinor Glyn, which might have been written expressly for Miss Dove and giving the star exceptional opportunities for fine emotional work.

A leading man of no less presence and ability than Rod La

"BUDDY" ROGERS HIT AT CERAMIC

Rocque, himself a star in his own right. This pair, seen together in this picture for the first time, might well be mated on the screen for a series of pictures.

A descendant of the first Spanish rulers of California plays an important part in the Ceramic theater's all-talking feature picture, "River of Romance."

The scion of early American landed gentry is Natalia Kingston, and she plays the role of Mexico, the beautiful octaroon companion of General Orlando Jackson (Wallace Beery), in the gambling house sequences of the production.

Miss Kingston's great-grandfather was General Vallejo, California's first governor. She was educated in San Rafael and San Francisco.

A year on the stage in the Bay city and in Los Angeles helped her to break into the films.

Charles "Buddy" Rogers is seen and heard in "River of Romance."

As the star of this romance-drama based on the famous Booth Tarkington story, "Magnolia," Rogers plays the youth who comes to the south from Philadelphia and is branded as a weakling until he changes his identity and forces the belief that he is a gallant gambler-fighter. Mary Brian plays the principal supporting role.

Others appearing in the distinguished cast are June Collyer, Henry B. Walthall, Fred Kohler, Mrs. George Fawcett, Walter McGrath, Anderson Lawler and George Reed.

Sat Up Half The Night Expecting Heart To Stop

Mr. N. C. Norman, Victim of Stomach Trouble, Says Gas Pains Around Heart Kept Him Up Half the Night — Palpitation, Pains and Unsteady Beat of Heart Almost Drove Him Wild — O. K. Now, Thanks to "ORANGE ROOT."

Mr. N. C. Norman, of R. F. D. No. 2, Wellsville, Ohio, near East Liverpool, had such awful attacks of indigestion, thought his heart would stop beating. Mr. Norman is very well known here, being a farmer and substantial citizen of Wellsville. He says:

"I have suffered awful agonies with stomach trouble or indigestion. Everything I ate seemed to turn to rocks in my stomach; gas would form and shoot all around my heart, causing sharp pains, shortness of breath and irregular heart action. Several times during the night I thought I was a goner. I tried everything, but never got relief till I started taking ORANGE ROOT and the golden Nuggets. I would sit up half the night, too scared to go to sleep."

After taking part of the first bottle, I noticed the gas pains letting up, and the bloating going down. Now that I have taken 3 bottles and a few of those golden Nuggets, I AM A WELL MAN ENTIRELY and don't know what it is to suffer any more. My heart is beating normally, I can eat anything I choose, and it doesn't hurt me the least bit. "When I go to bed I can sleep all night long, and get up in the morning completely rested and refreshed, and ready for the day's work. This great ORANGE ROOT has relieved me of suffering of 20 years standing, and I am telling all my friends just what a wonderful medicine it really is. It has increased my strength wonderfully and I can work hard all day long and NEVER get tired. The golden Nuggets are great laxatives and liver regulators, for since taking them I do not have any more headaches, dizzy spells, sluggishness or tired feeling."

If you are bothered with indigestion, nervousness, kidney weakness, or in a rundown condition with no pep or appetite, for goodness sake, go at once to MATHEWS MEDICINE STORE, get a treatment of 3 bottles of the tonic, a box of the golden Nuggets, take them according to directions, and you too, will soon be back on the road to HEALTH. Prices TONIC $1.25, Nuggets 50c. For sale also at all first class drug stores here and in nearby towns.

O'BROSKY LIMITS LAUGHLIN TO TWO BINGLES

Katie's Capture 8-1 Game

Slab Victor Also Drives in Trio of Runs.

WITH Jack O'Brosky pitching almost unbeatable ball, the Katie's handed the Homer Laughtin Inter-City league leaders an 8 to 1 drubbing last night at Wellsville. As a result of the win, the local P-ters moved into a tie with Wellsville for second place and reduced the Laughtin lead to a game and a half.

Not only did Jack hurl a superb brand of ball in setting the West Virginians down with two hits but he aided in the K. T. K. offensive by crashing out a single with the bases loaded, scoring two runners and, later, doubling to score another runner.

Manager Joe Dickey used four hurlers in an effort to check the Potters. Dignan started the game but, apparently, it was not his night. Dignan left the slab before the first inning was completed and was supplanted by Smith who finished the frame. Billy Watson served up the slants for the next four innings and "Hap" Jackson finished.

The Katie's clinched the contest in the opening canto when they chased in six runs.

Bayley singled to left. Schultz lined one into center, Bayley stopping at third and Schultz making second on the throw to the hot corner. Kinsey drew a walk, jamming the paths. Jack O'Brosky then lined one out to right, Bayley and Schultz counting. Kinsey went to third on a wild pitch and McConnell was walked, filling the runways again.

Pumpfry came through with double to score both Kinsey and Jack O'Brosky. Finley let Andy O'Brosky's grounder get through and McConnell counting and Pumpfry tallied when Watson pegged wide to the plate on Sayre's rap.

Newell Counts in Seventh. The Katie's added another marker in the fourth. Andy O'Brosky singled through second and was safe at second when Finley's throw on Sayre's grounder got through Denmore. He advanced to third as Witherow forced Sayre at second and finished when Randall threw out Witherow in an attempted steal of second base.

The visitors ended their run making in the fifth. Kinsey's single, a stolen base and Jack O'Brosky's double turned the trick.

Still fighting, however, the Laughtins prevented a shutout by scoring their lone run in the seventh. Tony Randall smashed out a triple to left. Hap Jackson ran for him and crossed the plate as Bayley retired Smith at first.

SPRINGER WILL FACE AGATHONS

Only Four-ply Winner At Bethany; Will Give Local Gridders Pitt Formations.

Earl B. Zook, Bethany college's only four-letter man, a record which will stand unchallenged until the Bisons decide to resume baseball, if they do, today was looking ahead to the annual football drive as the cool weather of the last couple of days injected a decided flavor of the gridiron into the atmosphere.

Mr. and Mrs. Zook recently moved into the Thompson apartments, Third street and Broadway and the former at the present time is employed in the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel plant at Midland and playing on one of the departmental baseball clubs there.

Zook comes to East Liverpool, where he will take charge of athletics, with a wonderful record of all-around achievement—on the football field, the cinder path, the basketball court and the baseball diamond.

He was all-conference end in the Illinois Little 10 conference in 1920. Previous to that he graduated from Fairburg, Ill., high school. During the war Zook was on a regimental track team at the Great Lakes and on the Harvard Radio basketball team at Cambridge.

Zook and several others came from the midwest to Bethany in 1921, including Shoemaker, line coach there last year. Adkins and Gephart.

He stirred up the dust by winning the 100 and the 220-yard dashes in the Pitt intercollegiate in 1922 and medals at W. & J. and West Virginia the following year.

He was baseball captain at Bethany in 1923. Ed Wells of the Yankees was there then and he and Randolph set the Penn State team down twice on their own field.

Zook played an end on Bethany's grid team and was all-conference basketball center in 1924. In these four sports Zook won letters and recognition throughout the conference. Since the college officially discarded baseball several years ago, Zook's four-letter record will stand until the game is resumed, if ever, and some other chap springs up to stardom.

When Zook came east he was signed with the St. Louis Browns but he decided not to try professional ball until Bill Powell and his brother, Ott, talked him into going to Flint in the Michigan-Going circuit.

He has played also in a number of other leagues, including the Florida State in 1924, the Mid Atlantic, at Scottsdale, in 1925. In the following year he was playing with Bloomington in the Three-league when he wrenched an elbow and had to quit for a while. He resumed with Uniontown in the Mid Atlantic and played through August.

In the capacity of coach, Zook was at Redstone, Republic, Pa., in 1924-25. His team won the county basketball championship. For four years he has enjoyed considerable success at Waynesburg. His football team of 1926 was scored upon only once and undefeated. That year they won the Waynesburg college invitational tournament from Bradock. In two years, Redstone lost three grid games out of 27 and Zook's Waynesburgers copied two of them.

Last fall his gridders trimmed Monessen and Canonsburg, among others, and, in basketball, Monessen nosed out Waynesburg by two points for the sectional championship.

Katy Easterday of Lisbon and Morrow were coaches at Bethany when Zook was there.

Last summer Zook was under Tom Davies at Chautauqua Training school, so in all probability the Blue and White gridders will get plenty of Pitt formations this fall with necessary variations for high school players.

LONG SEEKING CHECKER CROWN
CEDAR POINT, O., Aug. 16.—Hopeful of winning back the American checker championship which he held in 1922, Asa Long, Toledo law student, today matched his "Checker wits" with Basil Case, Chicago "Jyvenile wonder," in the finals of the American Checker association's annual tournament here.

Long, who was undefeated as he entered the finals, must win one game from the Chicagoan who has already lost one.

Nathan Rubin, Detroit "boy wizard" and Louis C. Ginsberg, of Brooklyn, N. Y., were eliminated from the tournament yesterday.

Chester Clubbers A 11 Set

Meet Semi-pros Saturday at Smith Field At 2 p. m.

EARL SPRINGER, leading twirler of the Inter-City circuit during the first half when he copped seven and dropped but one, probably will draw the pitching assignment when the Chester News nine faces George Textor's famed Massillon Agathons tomorrow afternoon at Smith Field, Chester.

The contest is scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock.

After the game in Chester, which will be a full-nine-inning contest, the Agathons will get into their cars and drive immediately to Midland where, at 5 o'clock, local time, or 6 o'clock, Midland time, they will play a team picked from the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel plant circuit.

Perc Wyant, who will start the game in middle, also will be available for relief pitching, in the event that any is needed.

The remainder of the Chester lineup is practically the same as usual.

The two clubs show the following lineups:

Chester. Campbell, 3b

Graber, rf

Mosely, p
Gantz, p
Cox, lf

Grimes, the first sacker, comes from the Toledo American association club. And Huff, the second sacker, as well as Sharkey, pitcher, were sold last week to the Cleveland American league club. Rieder is a former Kansas City A. A. player while Arndt comes from the Central. Graber from the Southern. Klein from the Texas. Gantz from the Central and Grimes from the South Atlantic leagues.

Evans is just out of college. Mosely, of course, is too well known here to need introduction.

Textor, who has piloted the Agathons for many, many years, has probably sent more men to minor and major league teams who have made good than any other man in the country. He sent up such stars as Jess Haines, Jack Kolp, Bobby Fothergill, Jesse Huff, Walter Sharkey and others to the majors, and such players as Joe Cobb, Baltimore, Hogan, Beckwith, a Salineville boy, Somerville, Foster, all to Erie, Leonardo to Springfield, Gibson to Akron, Messner to Boston Nationals.

About 40 players have "graduated" from Massillon in the last five years.

decision over Hugh Devine, New York.

AT TROY:—Frank Lafay won 10-round decision over Mike Denton.

COLUMBUS, O.—Jock Gerry, heavyweight won on a technical knockout over George Barksdale, colored, Akron (10).

TOLEDO, O.—Lee Fishbaugh, Newark, welterweight, fought a draw with Billy Hallas, Columbus (6).

SERVERS DEFEATED BY COKERS

Winners Tie Open Hearth Nine for First Place.

MIDLAND, Pa., Aug. 16.—Coke Plant nine of the Crucible Steel league trimmed the Service club here last night, 3 to 1, and went into a tie with the Open Hearth for first place. Each club has won six and lost three to date.

Petrosky, Service hurler, was effective until the fifth, limiting the opposition to one bingle until that period and keeping his club in front, 1 to 0. But the Cokers at this juncture laced out three bingles and scored two runs to make the pace. Wyant started the rally when he drew a base on balls and Scott and Kornick clubbed in the tying and winning markers.

Connors of the Cokers featured the hitting with a pair of doubles. He also got a base on balls in three trips up.

Carter, Service shortstop, contributed a triple and a single.

139-Year-Old Service, Pa., Congregation Plans Two-Day Dedictory Celebration

Fifth House of Worship Erected on Site.

On the site on which, some 139 years ago, their ancestors erected their first house of worship, members of the historic Service, Pa., United Presbyterian church will dedicate their fifth edifice and attend an homecoming celebration on Saturday and Sunday.

Near the church is the site of the first theological seminary that functioned west of the Allegheny mountains. From it and the Service congregation have been turned out ministers who have touched practically every state in the union.

Many former pastors of the church will also be in attendance. Rev. Dr. Campbell Speaker.

Many East Liverpool residents were at one time members of this congregation.

Among the chief speakers on Saturday afternoon will be the Rev. Dr. J. O. Campbell, former pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church of East Liverpool, who is now at Darlington, Pa. He will give the history of the church of which in his youth he was a member.

The celebration will begin at 10:30 in the morning. The Rev. L. W. L. Lytle, the pastor of the Hanover, Pa., church, will preside.

The address of welcome will be given by the Rev. H. C. Smith of Canonsburg, Pa., and the response by the Rev. J. Alvin Campbell, of Washington county, Pa., who at one time erected a United Presbyterian church at Washington. The Rev. E. A. Campbell, a brother of the Rev. J. A. Campbell, will make the closing prayer after the Mothers' club choral selection directed by Mrs. M. E. Green.

The afternoon session will begin at 1:30 o'clock, following a basket lunch.

Themes are Announced.

There will be at the outset music by the Kennedy Horn quartet, followed by addresses by persons who have had some contact with the church.

"Services Fifty Years Ago" will be the theme of the Rev. James Potter, a long ago former pastor. "Ten Years Past At Service" will be the subject of the Rev. K. W. McFarland. Then will follow Dr. J. O. Campbell, of Darlington, who will discuss "History of Service."

"Memories" will be the subject of the Rev. J. W. Engle, now of Alliquippa, Pa., and "Memories of My Pastorate at Service" that of the Rev. V. J. Golden, also another former pastor.

"What Service Means to Me" will be explained by the Rev. R. R. Littell, D. D., of Philadelphia, one of the members of the church in his boyhood, while his brother, the Rev. Archibald Littell, of Denver, Col., will lead a symposium on "Significance of the Rebuilding of Service." The speakers following him will be the Revs. D. C. McCoy and G. E. Henderson.

"Service as Character Builder" will be discussed by the Rev. C. P. Campbell of Gary, Ill.

Music will intersperse the addresses and an offering taken for the upkeep of the beautiful cemetery adjacent to the chapel in which lie many of the early members of the congregation as well as the founder and longtime pastor of it, the Rev. Dr. John Anderson.

Dedictory Tomorrow.

The dedicatory service will begin promptly at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. The Scripture reading and the devotional exercises will be in charge of the Rev. Harper Littell, of New York City.

Praise service will be led by Charles Craig, J. A. Campbell, Paul Grine and the Rev. J. Alvin Campbell.

Addresses, however, will also be made by the Revs. R. R. Littell, of Philadelphia; the Rev. J. Alvin Campbell, of Washington county, Pa., and the Rev. L. W. Lytle, of Hanover, Pa.

It was during the next to the final year of the stormy period of Andrew Johnson at the helm of the ship of state in Washington that the fourth church was erected.

The chapel to be dedicated on Sunday was built in 1928 with Calvin Coolidge as president and while Herbert Hoover, the incumbent, was making his campaign for the place.

The first church on the spot was built in 1790. Four times thereafter it was rebuilt, fire on one or two instances making this necessary. The dates of its rebuilding were 1800, 1828, 1868 and 1928. The first structure stood ten years, the second 28 years, the third 40, and the fourth, 60 years. The present edifice is now one year old.

A HEAVY MEAL
ACUTE INDIGESTION
SUDDEN DEATH!

Called "Heart Failure," But Cause is Stomach Acidity—Gas!

Thousands of folks think they have Heart Trouble and live in constant fear of a sudden end, when, as a matter of fact their trouble simply is caused by an excess of acid in the stomach.

When your stomach is full of acid and the slightest bit of food sets up a fermentation, it causes bloating and Gas—the stomach distends and crowds the heart—and palpitation, shortness of breath, difficult breathing, pressure, dizziness and a feeling of exhaustion and oppression follows—a highly uncomfortable and often really dangerous condition, but not Heart Trouble!

You can prove this in three minutes. From any good drugstore, obtain some pure Bisurated Magnesia (either powder or tablets) and take a little in water after your next meal. Watch results. If the heart symptoms you fear fail to appear, you have found your real trouble—stomach hyper-acidity—and this condition Bisurated Magnesia is guaranteed to stop. There is nothing better, safer, surer for acid-caused digestive troubles, and a single trial proves its value. Try it.—Adv.

BROWN TO RULE BEFORE NIGHT IN PYKE CASE
State Secretary Will Act on Election Board Charge.
CLEVELAND QUIZ
Improper Campaigning on Woman's Part Alleged.
CLEVELAND, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—The fate of Mrs. Bernice Pyke, member of the county board of elections and Democratic national committee woman, charged with using improper means in campaigning against Cleveland's charter amendment, was turned over to Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown today.
A transcript of the testimony taken at Mrs. Pyke's hearing before F. E. Stetson, Elyria banker, and George Neffner, special representative of Brown, was rushed to the offices of the secretary of state in Columbus today where it was expected that he would give immediate consideration.
The charges against Mrs. Pyke, preferred by Paul S. Danaceau, one of the originators of the charter amendment which comes to vote here at a special election Tuesday and which would replace the city manager system of city government in Cleveland with the mayor-ward-council plan, rested principally on the testimony of Mrs. Mathilda Grimes, woman Democratic leader.

"BIG GAME"

Story of a girl who thought love more powerful than society.

By Vida Hurst

Mona dropped his hand, saying softly, "If that's the way you feel about it, there's no use of my trying to explain. It isn't necessary for me to explain my engagements to you, anyway."

"See here, Mona! Now don't get mad! If you say there was nothing to it, why I believe you. I don't mean to be narrow-minded or suspicious."

"I don't know what else you can call it," she accused. "Even if there had been anything to it, you haven't any right to criticize me."

"I know I haven't," he murmured, relieved to find himself so evidently in the wrong. "I'm sorry I said anything. I beg your pardon."

She consented to be led back to her place by the fire. Listening with a hurt air to his apologies, she was a little ashamed of her own experience in deceiving him.

More than a little angry at his willingness to be deceived, but she fortified herself by remembering that it was all for the best. It was important that none of their immediate group should have any inkling of the truth. Particularly since it was not to happen again.

Now, too, she realized the real necessity for caution. They could not even have lunch together without the chance of being seen.

Nothing had been less likely than that Johnnie should be at the Nankin. It proved what Bruce had already said. If they insisted on seeing each other, no matter how innocently, someone would be sure to "think something."

And now that Johnnie was convinced that the meeting had not been prearranged, he might mention it to someone else.

Which wouldn't matter unless Mabel heard it and thought Bruce had tried to conceal it. The only thing to do was to warn Bruce to tell Mabel.

Mona sighed. What a tangled web they had already started to weave!

It was an effort to be nice to Johnnie after that. Her memories of the hour with Bruce had been spoiled. And it was Johnnie's fault. If he hadn't been there... Or if he hadn't happened to be in love with her...

"Heck with Johnnie, anyway," she thought, viciously. "Why have I put up with him as long as I have? Anyone would think I was in love with him!"

But she dared not stop playing up to him now for fear of rousing his suspicion again.

For an hour and a half she forced herself to smile and "be sweet."

Asking, "How's business, Johnnie?"

Johnnie's father owned a factory where Johnnie spent his leisure hours. It was a pleasant fiction, subscribed to by family and friends, that Johnnie took this seriously.

That he was important... Only the boy and his father knew how funny this was. But Mona suspected the truth. And with infinite vision, flattered him on the quality he most obviously lacked.

Under her tactful questioning he seemed to entirely recover from the attack of jealousy. Before he left she permitted him to hold her hand.

"I love you, Mona. And if the time ever comes when I can do something for you I'll prove it."

"That's lovely of you, Johnnie"

She sighed with relief when he had gone. As if Johnnie Merrill would ever be in a position to do anything for her.

The boy and girl friendship was the only tie between them and its bonds were being severely strained. At the moment Johnnie was more of a liability than an asset.

And, oh, dear, what was she going to do about Bruce? If she could only talk to him.

Suddenly it occurred to her that he was in the habit of working late at the office. Perhaps if she called she could reach him there.

As she repeated the number she was not unconscious of her incoherence. Telephoning for the second time that day, after promising never to do so again. But this was for his sake as well as hers. It was necessary...

She waited, eagerly. Thrilled to hear his voice so unbelievably dear.

"Oh," she said. "You sound so tired."

"Who is it?" he asked, cautiously.

"It's Mona. Are you alone?"

"Yes I'm working on an ad."

"I wish I could see it," she said. "Listen, Bruce, I haven't forgotten that this is forbidden, but things have developed since I saw you at noon."

"What do you mean, Mona?"

"Nothing serious! Only Johnnie happened to see us having lunch."

Bruce said nothing.

"It doesn't matter so far as I'm concerned," she continued, lightly. "I laughed it off and told him we had happened to meet on Nicollet. The only thing is he might mention it before Mabel!"

"I'll tell her myself tonight," Bruce replied. "Thank you for calling—dear!"

The little endowment slipped across the wire like a reluctant carter.

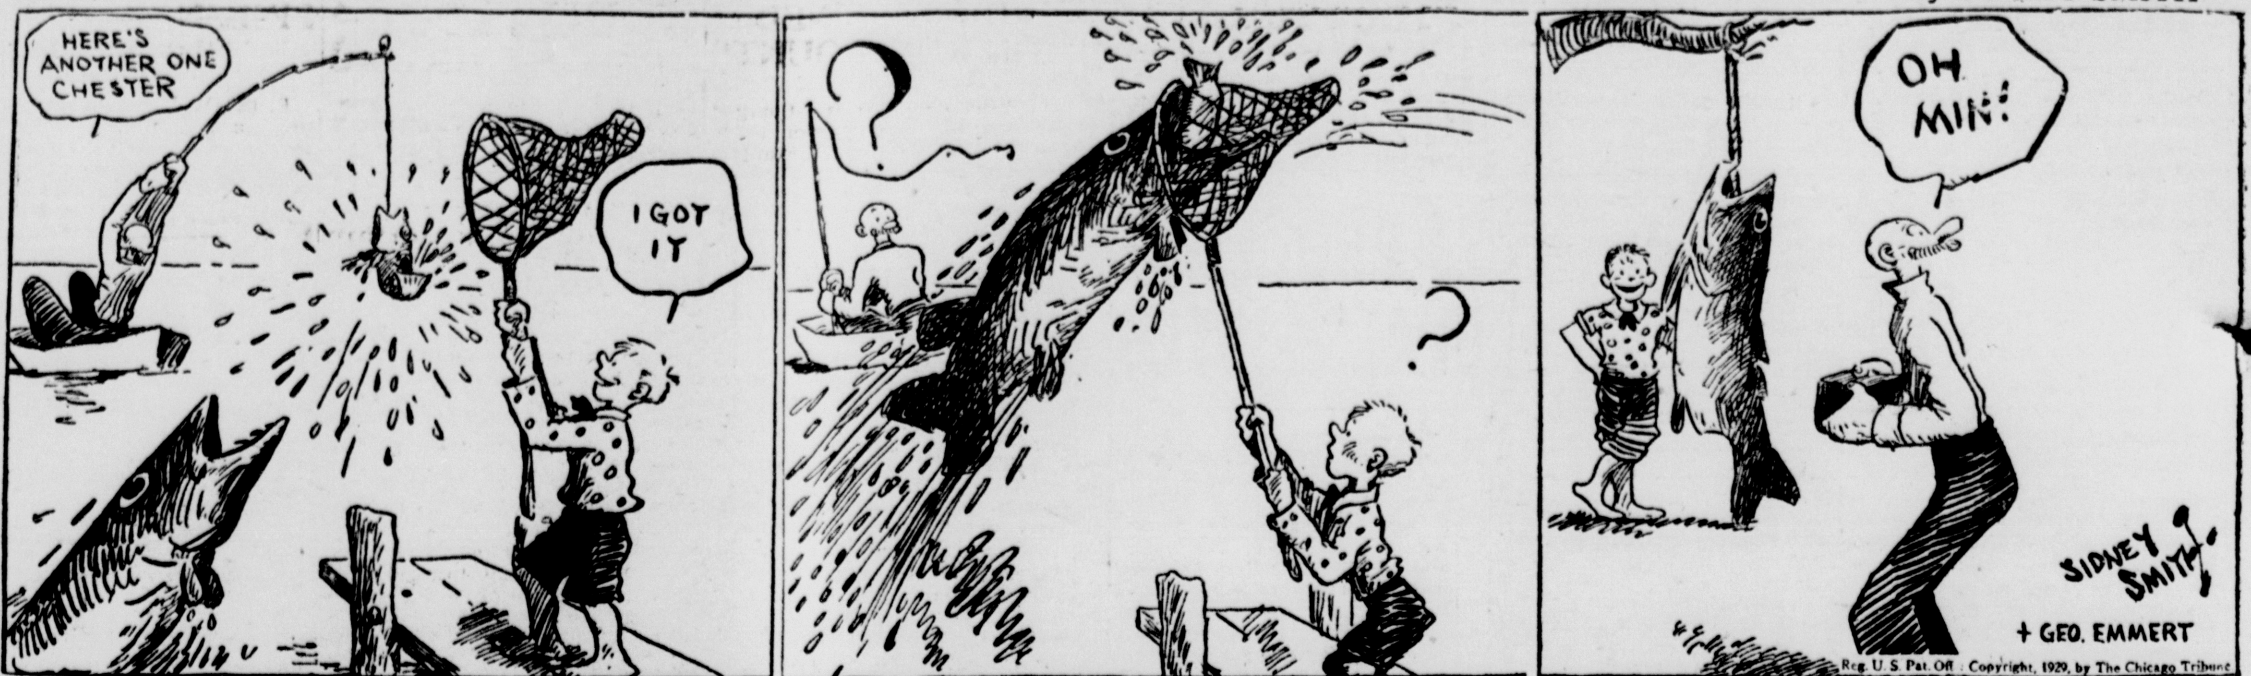

Bruce hadn't intended to say it any more than she had planned to call him. The conversation had been a gift from the gods. Or was it Johnnie?

At any rate it completed Mona's day. Brought swinging back her confidence in her ability to handle the situation.

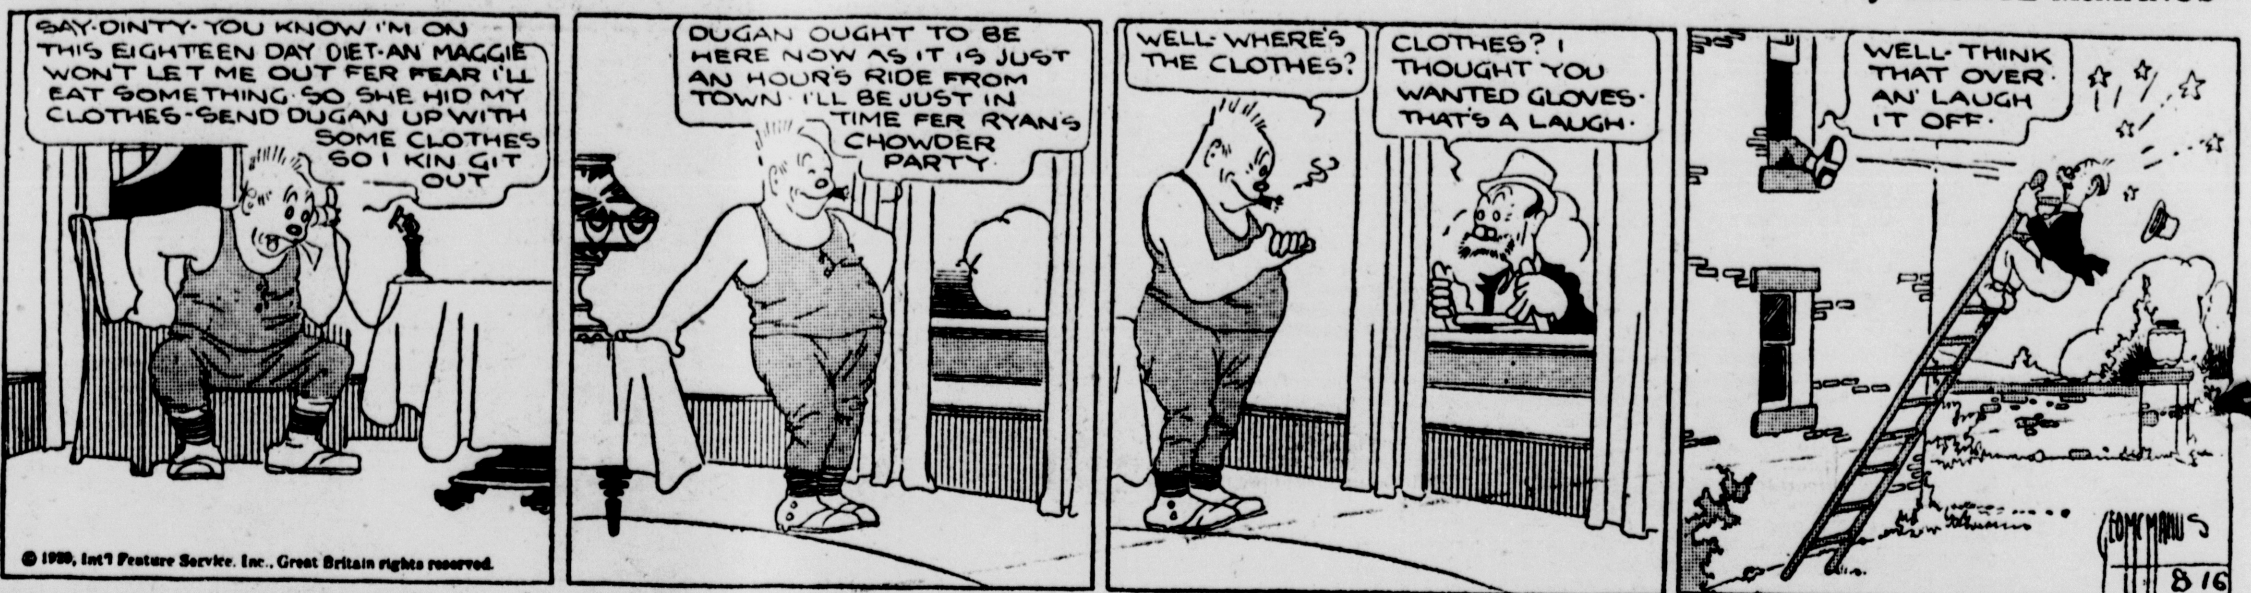

She switched off the lights and went upstairs to her room, feeling contented and happy. Her father's room was vacant as usual. The servant's quarters were on the third floor. Separated from the rest of the house by a stairway and a long narrow hall. But Mona was not afraid. Nor lonely tonight!

5,695 DOGS ARE TAGGED

County Record Nearly
500 Under 1928
Report.

LISBON, O., Aug. 16.—Although 5,695 dog licenses have been issued so far this year in Columbiana county, the record is nearly 500 less than the 1928 report. County Dog Warden C. E. Donahay said today. One hundred dogs have been killed by Donahay, many at the request of owners who failed to take out a license for them.

Farmers have also killed a number of dogs detected among sheep, and as a result many damage claims have been filed with the county commissioners for the death and wounding of sheep. During the last few months a number of people have been arrested on affidavits filed by Donahay and fined for harboring dogs without licenses.

She says: "So many of my friends had been talking about the wonderful results they were having with Owa-Ton-Na that I made up my mind I would try it myself. Owa-Ton-Na certainly acts differently than anything I have ever taken. The way it cleans up the stomach is remarkable. Food which used to distress me a great deal, now causes no trouble at all and what an appetite I have now since food tastes right. My bowels are functioning normally, headaches, dizzy spells, and backaches are gone. My kidneys are acting much more normally and my nerves have improved 100%. I go to bed at night and get a good night's sleep. I go about my work with new pep and energy. I certainly recommend Owa-Ton-Na to anyone in poor health."
